UK Air Arms

Ian Carroll
Mach III Publishing

Foreword

United Kingdom Air Arms 2006 contains details by current unit of all the aircraft operated by the Armed Forces of the United Kingdom in active and technical training roles along with those in long term storage.

We also review all the aircraft types that were still in service in 1964 or entered service after that date and give individual fates, where known, or current locations for each example of each type.

We also include a section covering all extant UK Military aircraft located within the UK and beyond that were withdrawn from service prior to 1964.

There is also a section covering foreign military aircraft normally resident in the UK. These range from ageing warbirds to more modern hardware.

We also include RAF Maintenance serials from 7000M upwards.

Finally we also list the XA to XZ and ZA to ZZ serial batches.

Inevitably errors and omissions will have been made in this publication and any comments would be gratefully received by the editor at the address below:

Acknowledgements

It would be impossible to compile this monograph without the aid of several enthusiast group publications/websites. Special mention should be made of Military Aviation Review (brianmap@btinternet.com), the Dutch Aviation Society/Scramble (mil@scramble.nl), Mil-Spotters-Forum@Yahoogroups.com, ELAS and all the 'anons'.

Other publications used in the production of this book are Air Britain News, Air International, Air Forces Monthly and Aviation Letter.

Thanks should also go to all the contributors to the St.Athan Aviation Group and the Wolverhampton Aviation Group

Special thanks should also go to Alan Allen for his invaluable help with the Technical Schools, disposals and preservation information.

WARNING PLEASE REMEMBER OUR HOBBY IS NOT WIDELY UNDERSTOOD OUTSIDE OF THE UNITED KINGDOM.
